An Afternoon Blaze.

The alarm of fire this afternoon at 1:45 was caused by a blaze in the furniture factory of Ah Hee, situated on Nuuanu and Pauahi streets, with an entrance on each. In the rear of the workshop there is a large bin in which is stored a quantity of dried salt grass, used for stuffing mattresses. Children playing with matches set this grass on fire and the place was ablaze in a moment.

Fortunately a two-inch stream of water and abundance of hose were handy and the eight or ten workmen employed in the place did not lose their presence of mind. The arrival of the chemical engine soon completed the drowning out of the fire, before the other engines arrived.

The damage was only nominal. Six months ago the department was called to the same place for a similar fire. Ah Hee has had a furniture factory on the same premises for thirty-one years.
